

Who we are

“Climate Fiction Writers Europe” is a registered non-profit association for all writers, journalists, lyricists, poets, critics, translators, bloggers and other publishing artists whose work relates directly or indirectly to topics such as environment, nature, sustainability and climate change and/or its consequences in the broadest sense.

Literature is one of the best ways to inspire passion, empathy and the desire for change. We are a group of writers who are convinced of the need for environmental and climate protection measures and we want to make our contribution. Our works raise awareness of the important issues of our time and encourage action at individual, corporate and governmental levels.

“Climate Fiction Writers Europe” is open to all citizens and is not affiliated with any ideological, economic, trade union or financial group, party or government. We reject all forms of extremism and intolerance of religion, race, origin or gender.

Our objectives

We are a community of writers who want to make a contribution. We write because we are curious, because we have something to say, because we hope for change and because we want to share our passion. In this way, we celebrate the wonders of nature and at the same time help to raise awareness of the problematic treatment of our planet.

Those who write about environment, nature, sustainability and climate change often fight alone. We feel the need to exchange ideas with like-minded people. We share ideas and information, advice and opportunities, sources and connections. We join forces to make our voices heard.

We want to have an impact on the future of our planet. Everyone in their own way. Individually but also collectively.

We want to promote the writing and appreciation of climate fiction in Europe.

We want to inform, support, promote and advocate for authors of climate fiction.

We want to be a competent platform for climate fiction and thus a comprehensive source of information and education.

We want to represent, promote and defend the interests of our authors in the various areas of the publishing industry and self-publishing.

What we are doing to achieve our goals

- Establishing alliances and partnerships with other writer networks, associations and federations across Europe.
- Establishing alliances and partnerships across Europe with companies that represent our values.
- Discussions and round tables with decision-makers from business and politics.
- Expanding our network and attracting new members.
- Establishing a trustworthy professional profile and visibility.
- Publishing a regular newsletter.
- Support, organization, coordination and implementation of cultural events such as literary festivals, readings, book fairs, congresses, workshops.
- Supporting writers in their collaboration with publishers and self-publishing platforms.
- Raising awareness among editors, publishers and key decision-makers in the media and politics in order to generate more attention for our mission.
- Organization of climate fiction writing competitions and literary award ceremonies in line with the purpose of the association.
- Providing a platform to present the work, interests and availability of our members.
- Coaching and mentoring up-and-coming authors

Membership

We welcome everyone who shares our passion and our values. It doesn't matter whether you are young or not so young, whether you are traditionally published, self-published or completely unpublished. The kind of writing is also irrelevant. Whether books, blogs, newspapers, newsletters, articles, scripts, screenplays or poems - anyone who writes is welcome.

If you do not write but you feel dedicated to our mission, you can become a supporting member. Any natural or legal person who shares our goals can become a supporting member.

We reserve the right to reject membership applications if it is apparent that applicants manifestly represent values in their work or public appearance that are not in line with our values. We reject extremism, discrimination and intolerance in any and all forms.

Benefits of membership

- Every member of "Climate Fiction Writers Europe" is part of a bigger picture. Together we are stronger, we are heard, we can make a difference.
